

East Meets West Gallery “Flying to the Sky”

The EAST MEETS WEST GALLERY is proud to present a group art show “Flying to the Sky” which will run in the ARTPLAY Design Center from September 22 to October 22, 2017.

The exhibition involves three artists Petr Grigoriev, Olga Polesovshchikova and Vasilisa Lipatova. They represent four different kinds of Art: Painting and Graphic Art - Petr Grigoriev, Art photography- Olga Polesovshchikova, Sculpture and Objects - Vasilisa Lipatova.

Petr Grigoriev has chosen for his anniversary show the spiritual connection of a Man with the Sky. To him the Sky and Clouds are not only the part of the Landscape, but as well spiritual connection to God, to the Kingdom of Heaven. Olga Polesovschikova as well dedicates many of her photos from the Kamchatka series to the Sky. She looks for a special spirituality in the Sky: a typical for Buddhist philosophy silence and serenity, tranquility and immersion in oneself. She has also a great deal of vision and thinking of the photography more as a Fine Art artist who works with gouache, pastel or acrylic on canvas.

The exhibition will feature as well two contemporary sculpture works by Vasilisa Lipatova from her series "Techno-Bio Objects" dedicated to the exploration and the search for common points between natural life forms and mechanical structures. Currently, works from this series are exhibited at the exhibition of contemporary sculpture "Five Dimensions" in the New Tretyakov Gallery.

The exhibition “Flying to the Sky” combines in one space different visual art forms, which are now quite rarely neighbor with each other. It's a pity. Art photography, Fine Arts and Sculpture Art have naturally their own unique features, but they as well command some common artistic approaches in opening of theme such as dramaturgy, composition, light, the choice of stylistic features of an image, the choice of material and others.
